Life Settlement Fiduciary

of these things is not like the others

With little more than a web browser, it's possible to approximate the value of most houses, cars and baseball cards. That's not the case with life insurance policies in the secondary market, which require specialized software and esoteric inputs to properly assess.

Sellers are at an immediate disadvantage if they don't know the fair market value of the assets they wish to sell (especially if they rely on buyers for this feedback).

Please consider me your resource for life settlement valuations and brokerage.
